In the table at the top of the page (which, as noted, reports after-tax results), we give investment and derivative gains/losses a line of their own because the amount of these in any given quarter or year is usually meaningless.

With very limited exceptions, gains or losses from marketable securities are recorded only upon sale. Berkshire has large amounts of unrealized gains, and sales are never made with an eye to their effect on reported earnings. During the first six months of 2008, our unrealized gains fell by $10.7 billion (leaving us a total of $21.1 billion in unrealized gains at the end of June). That decline of $10.7 billion does not show in our reported earnings. What is included is a realized gain: $361 million pre-tax and $235 million after-tax.

In contrast, accounting rules require that any unrealized gain or loss from our derivatives contracts be regularly recorded in earnings. During the first six months, Berkshire's derivatives had an unrealized pre-tax loss of $952 million. However, that is a "net" figure, incorporating gains and losses in several different kinds of derivatives. Fundamentally, the size of that figure reflects the fact that we recorded a $1,014 million unrealized loss in our two major categories of derivatives. This represents a reduction in our loss during the second quarter of $654 million from the loss of $1,668 million we recorded during the first quarter.

Berkshire Hathaway and its subsidiaries engage in diverse business activities including property and casualty insurance and reinsurance, utilities and energy, finance, manufacturing, retailing and services. Common stock of the company is listed on the New York Stock Exchange, trading symbols BRK.A and BRK.B.

Certain statements contained in this press release are "forward looking" statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. These statements are not guaranties of future performance and actual results may differ materially from those forecasted.

Comment on Regulation G

This press release includes certain non-GAAP financial measures. The reconciliations of such measures to the most comparable GAAP figures in accordance with Regulation G are included herein.

Berkshire presents its results in the way it believes will be most meaningful and useful, as well as most transparent, to the investing public and others who use Berkshire's financial information. That presentation includes the use of certain non-GAAP financial measures. In addition to the GAAP presentations of net earnings, Berkshire shows operating earnings defined as net earnings exclusive of investment and derivative gains/losses.

Although the investment of insurance and reinsurance premiums to generate investment income and investment gains or losses is an integral part of Berkshire's operations, the generation of investment gains or losses is independent of the insurance underwriting process. Moreover, under applicable GAAP accounting requirements, losses can be created as the result of other-than-temporary declines in value without actual realization or when certain types of investments are marked-to-market through earnings. In sum, investment and derivative gains/losses for any particular period are not indicative of quarterly business performance.
